RADIO 477! is inspired by Hello, This Is Radio 477! a 1929 jazz musical revue performed at the Berezil Theatre in Kharkiv about Kharkiv. It envisioned a Ukrainian popular culture in step with the latest trends in Europe and America. Radio 477, Kharkiv's radio station, was one of the most powerful in the country; it represented new technology and the future. Long assumed to have been destroyed, Yuliy Meitus's score was recently discovered in an archive. Only fragments of the script exist, but the programs include a detailed list of scenes. Hello, This Is Radio 477! was structured like a typical German revue of the time, with a satirical look at city life in the first part, popular dances in the second, and a dramatic scene at the end. We follow the show's structure and are inspired by songs by Yuliy Meitus.

Yuliy Meitus, one of Ukraine's great 20th century composers, was born in 1903 to a Jewish family in Kropyvnytsky, Ukraine. In 1919 he graduated from the local music school and moved to Kharkiv, where he studied composition with Semen Bogatyryov at the Kharkiv Institute of Music and Drama. From 1923 he was the concertmaster for the Kharkiv Opera Society and organized the first jazz band in Ukraine in 1925. From 1927 to 1933 Meitus created the music for 15 productions at the Berezil Theatre in Kharkiv, many directed by Les Kurbas. It was believed that all of Meitus's music for the Berezil shows was destroyed after Kurbas was arrested in 1933. The find of the score for this show gives us hope more of his Berezil scores will be located. Today, Yuliy Meitus is best known for his 14 operas, numerous orchestral works and about 300 songs set to poetry.

BOB HOLMAN (Tour Guide) is a poet most often connected with the oral tradition, spoken word, poetry slams and digital poetry. Author of 20 books, founder of the

Bowery Poetry Club, he wrote the Foreword to Zhadan's What We Live For, What We Die For. As an actor, he created and toured the part of Captain John Smith in Yara's Capt. John Smith Goes to Ukraine and Ukrainian Futurist David Burliuk in Slap! He created two award-winning PBS series, The United States of Poetry, and the documentary on endangered languages, Language Matters www.bobholman.com

OKSANA HORBAN, originally from Ukraine, graduated Kyiv Academy of Circus and Variety Arts with honors, where she majored in pantomime and worked with Bingo Circus-Theatre and Mykola Baranov. Oksana graduated Montclair State University in May 2022 with Bachelor of Fine Arts in Dance, where she performed works by Alexander Anderson, Ohad Naharin, Paul Taylor, Bradley Shelver, Larry Keigwin, Maxine Steinman, Fredrick Earl Mosley and others. Oksana performed with Streb extreme action company and Mystical feet company. She is a traveling artist for Sensual Movement Latin Dance Company.

SUSAN HWANG tells stories and makes things that are collapsible, like songs and times. Her instruments take up space (accordion, Janggu—traditional Korean drum, piano) but other physical objects she can't play, wear or eat intimidate her. She founded, curates and hosts The Bushwick Book Club – a monthly live performance series and podcast presenting new work by local musicians, artists and chefs inspired by literature. Susan plays accordions because they are pretty and lighter than pianos (barely). She plays drums because it's healthy for a girl to hit things.
